

On February 3, 2009, Plaintiff filed Responses (Docs. 13 & 14) to both Motions. In his Response to Plaintiff's Motion to Dismiss for Insufficient Service, Plaintiff asserted that the Motion should be denied because Defendant waived the defense of insufficient service by failing to raise it in its first Motion to Dismiss.

On February 10, 2009, Defendant filed a Motion to Amend/Correct, requesting that it be allowed to include in its first Motion to Dismiss the defense of insufficient service.

II. DISCUSSION

The defense of insufficient service of process can be raised in a motion pursuant to Rule 12(b)(5). Where a party makes a motion under Rule 12 but does not raise the defense of insufficient service of process, that defense is waived if it was available to the party at the time the motion was filed. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(1)(A); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 12 (g)(2); Hemispherx Biopharma, Inc. v. Johannesburg Consol. Inves., 553 F.3d 1351, 1360 (11th Cir. 2008) ("Simply put, a litigant must cite each separate Rule 12(b) defense in the pre-answer motion or if no pre-answer motion is filed, then in the responsive pleading."); T&R Enters., Inc. v. Cont'l Grain Co., 613 F.2d 1272, 1277 (5th Cir. 1980)¹ (concluding that the defense of insufficient service must be raised in the "first defensive move whether it be a Rule

Here, Defendant waived its right to raise the defense of insufficient service by failing to raise it in its pre-answer Motion to Dismiss under Rule 12(b)(1). Defendant did not attempt to add the defense to its first Rule 12 Motion until after the pro se Plaintiff alerted Defendant to its procedural folly by opposing the second Rule 12 Motion on the ground that Defendant waived the insufficient service defense. To allow Defendant to now go back and amend the first Rule 12 Motion to add a defense that it was required to raise in that Motion would unjustly penalize the pro se Plaintiff for raising the waiver issue. As a result, the Court finds that Defendant’s Motion to Amend should be denied. Likewise, because Defendant waived the defense of insufficient service by not raising it in its first Rule 12 Motion, Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss for Insufficient Service of Process is denied.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Defendant’s Motions are denied.

SO ORDERED, this the 25th day of February, 2009.
